TRIMEGA FIRST FOR GLOVIA IN SUPPORT OF NHS CONTRACT

Trimega Laboratories, a market leader in testing for substances of abuse, has teamed up with Fujitsu subsidiary Glovia International, to become its first European client to utilise its Glovia Order Management cloud delivered ERP solution.

The agreement follows Trimega's appointment to the new NHS Supply Chain Drugs of Abuse National Framework Agreement Contract, which qualifies it to provide point-of-care testing products for drugs of abuse to NHS clients throughout England and Wales. It also coincides with Trimega's move into a new purpose-built warehouse facility in Hemel Hempstead which will be central to ensuring smooth customer turn-around and delivery for shipments.

Avi Lasarow, managing director of Trimega Laboratories, commented: "In order to support the high levels of efficiency required to deliver into an NHS trust, we first consulted for a best in class ERP system. The end result is that we have been fortunate enough to become Glovia International's first European implementation of their SaaS delivered ERP solution to streamline our warehouse process automation."

Randy Ehler, Executive Vice President of the SaaS Business Unit at Fujitsu subsidiary Glovia, added:

"We are very happy to deliver new applications to Trimega, safe in the knowledge that glovia.com Order Management, built on the Force.com platform, will provide complete visibility into all sales orders and quotes as well as the inventory, fulfillment and invoicing required to complete transactions."
